COUNTY TEACHER LIST ANNOUNCED TODAY

Murray Youth Is Drowned In Pond

Larry Dale Hale, 16, drowned in a farm pond near Mayfield Monday while swimming with three other youths.

His body was recovered five hours later by the Marshall County Rescue Squad. Hale was the son of Mrs. Dennis Wood, Mayfield, and Hilton Hale, of Murray.

Companions told authorities that Hale suddenly went under the water while trying to swim across the large pond.

Young Hale lived at 933 South Eighth Street in Mayfield.

Other survivors are his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Coy Lee Hale of Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey of Lynn Grove.

The Byrd Funeral Home is in charge of the arrangements for the funeral which will be held in the chapel at 3:00 p.m. tomorrow with Rev. Harrell Graves and Rev. Fred French officiating.

Burial will be in the Trinity Cemetery in Graves County.

Friends may call at the funeral home until the funeral hour.

Many Will Attend Art Workshop Here

Fifty-four high school students have been accepted to study at the High School Honors Art Workshops at Murray State College this summer.

Twenty-six of the students will attend the first workshop from July 8-19, and 28 will attend the second from July 22-Aug. 2.

The art workshops are planned to give students concentrated experience in one or more painting or drawing media with emphasis on both individual expression and technique. Tuition grants are provided by the college for students attending the workshops. Richard Jackson, of the MSC art faculty, is director of the workshops.

Those from Murray to attend workshops are: Margaret Rose Bryan, Rebecca L. Moore, Arlo Sprung, Jr., Jeanette Cathey, Michael McDaniel, and Nore Winter.

Gravel Trucks Are Bought By Court

The Calloway Fiscal Court last week purchased two gravel trucks for use on county roads.

A 1963 Dodge and a 1963 Ford were purchased for about $3600 each. Bids were taken on the 1963 trucks and Parker Motors and Taylor Motors were only $100 a part on their bids, so the court decided to award each of them one the trucks.

County Fair All Ready To Begin Here On July 15

The Murray-Calloway County fair plans are complete according to information received from the fair board and will be held during the week of July 15 through 20.

Harold Beaman, fair board chairman, said that a number of improvements have been added to the permanent fair ground site since last year.

A merchant's display building is now ready for better housing of displays and new and modern sanitary rest rooms have been constructed. Permanent bleachers with a capacity of about 200 have been built and additional bleachers and chairs to seat another 2,000 people will be provided.

All persons who are interested in the fair are invited to attend, a meeting of the fair board on Thursday night at the city hall where final plans for the fair will be discussed.

Among other improvements at the fairgrounds is the grading of the main entrance and the reworking and seeding of the parking lot of the fair.

Hunt's Shows will be at the fair this year with twenty rides. Four of the rides are reported to be completely new.

The fair opens officially at 8:00 p.m. on Monday July 15 and the beauty contest to select a fair queen will be held. The 4-H and PFA Bee Show will be held on Thursday and the local horse show will also be held that night.

On Friday the 4-H and PFA tractor driving contest will be held and the society horse show under Slick Banks has been scheduled.

The Junior Dairy Show, mule pulling contest and home talent show has been set for Saturday.

A complete list of the events to be held during the one week fair will be published at a later date.

The fair board is composed of Harold Beaman, president; Harry Allison, vice-president; Don Overbey, secretary; and Nat Green, treasurer.

Other members of the board are Z. C. Enix, W. D. Fenton, Robert Hendon, Hugh Wilson, LeRoy Eldridge, Glen Kelso, Thomas Banks, Glen Sims and Clyde Johnson.

Cairo Group Bitterly Critical Of Proposed Routing Of I-24

CAIRO, Ill. — The Highway Committee of the Cairo Chamber of Commerce has publicly criticized the "interchange" Engineers' proposed routing of Interstate Highway 24 and the rejected representatives of Cairo and Alexander County for their alleged silence in connection with the controversy.

The committee charged that the location of I-24 "has been used as a club since it was announced."

"If the Cairo Chamber of Commerce didn't roll over and play dead in connection with routing of I-24 to Pulley's Mill, the routing of I-57 might be changed to cross the Mississippi River further north and away from Cairo," the public statement declared.

The committee said Chief Engineer Staff "apparently will insist upon I-24 crossing near Paducah, Ky. If forced to agree to the plan of Wilbur Smith and Associates (routing consultants), it seems he plans to stop I-57 at the intersection with (Continued on Page 6).

New Murray Hospital Report

He was enroute to his home in Delaware after visiting relatives here in Murray.

He is survived by his father Pearl Robertson of Murray route four; two sisters Mrs. Verble Taylor of Murray route five; and Mrs. Seldon Lamb of Murray route four; two brothers Harley Robertson of the Hazel Highway and Ernest Robertson of Kirkwood, Missouri.

He is being returned to the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home. Arrangements are incomplete at this time.

Nunn Urges That Law Be Put Before General Assembly

GLASGOW, Ky. (UP) — Louis B. Nunn, the Republican nominee for governor, urged Gov. Bert Combs Monday to place a public accommodations law before the special session of the General Assembly.

In a telegram sent to Combs Monday afternoon, Nunn said:

"Public opinion from both Negro and white citizens to your bold attempt to dictate legislative matters by executive order is so overwhelming adverse that I earnestly solicit your reconsideration to bring the matter of public accommodations before the duly elected representatives of the people."

Nunn said that the legislative approach was the "only legal means of permanently and satisfactorily gaining racial integration."

He also claimed that the constitutionality of Combs' executive order was questionable.

"I am aware of the pressure exerted on you," Nunn said, "but I am equally aware of the fact that people resent your bypassing their duly elected representatives and the use of dictatorial executive orders."

Murray Sub-District MYF Holds Meeting At Martin Chapel

by Toni Scruggs

The Murray Sub-District MYF of the Methodist Church held its June meeting week at the Martin's Chapel Methodist Church. The local president, Mike Charlton gave the group a warm welcome. Steve Robertson gave the devotion after which the program was turned over to Bro. Jones. He showed slides of his missionary trip taken several months ago, to Costa Rica.

He told the group many interesting things about the work of all Protestant churches there as well as much about the country itself and its people. Following the program, Bobby Spillman, president, called to the meeting to order. The secretary Toni Scruggs called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting.

Newly elected officers are: president Bobby Spillman, vice-president, Charles Fimell, secretary, Toni Scruggs, treasurer, Benjie Humphreys, publicity, Marilyn Charlton.

The area chairman are Kaye Wallis, Sue Ann Wallis, Steve Robertson, Judy Cooper, and David Anders. The new counselors are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mullins of Wingo.

A large number attended this meeting and Martin's Chapel was crowded. The attendance banner, The group had as a special guest, the new Youth Counselor for the Paris District, Bro. Wayne Fessire of Gleason, Tennessee.

A short business session was held after which the group was dismissed by the MYF benediction. Recreation was held in the basement with refreshments afterward.

Probation Bill Passed By House

By JOSEPH VARILLA

United Press International

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UP) — The House of Representatives, heeding the pleas of Gov. Bert Combs, today passed the probation and parole bill, by a 67-19 vote.

Before today's session began, Combs appeared before a Democratic caucus to urge the members to approve a bill. Only three Democrats voted against the measure.

"House Minority Leader Wayland P. Rinder, R-Ohio, charged that the legislators were not voting their convictions on the bill."

"They are weak-kneed enough to bow to executive domination," he said. "If a vote had been taken on this bill yesterday, it would have been defeated."

Correction Seen Necessary

Other Republicans said they agreed that measures should be taken to correct the penal system in Kentucky, but said they could not approve the legislation at this session.

"We are voting to empty the prisons without first rehabilitating the prisoners," said Rep. James Caldwell, R-Jefferson.

Rep. John Y. Brown, D-Payette, told his colleagues that the bill "gives us who have never been caught a chance to take a charitable attitude toward those who have been caught."

The bill was the last major piece of legislation before the General Assembly following Gov. Bert Combs' signature of the bill making (Continued on Page 6)

"A Long Rocky Road" Ends At All-Star Game For Woodeshick

By FRED DOWN

United Press International
It's been a long, rocky road from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., for Hal Woodeshick, but that 136 earned run average he's sporting is a cinch to make him the Houston Colts' representative on the National League All-Star team.

It also gives him good reason to claim he's the best relief pitcher in the senior circuit.
A 6-foot, 3-inch, 200-pound left-hander who failed in previous major league trials with Cleveland, Detroit and Washington, Woodeshick has been shooting bullets in relief all season. He's pitched in 27 games and allowed only 10 earned runs in 66 innings.

Woodeshick raised his season record to 8-3 Monday night when he yielded one run in three innings to gain credit for the Colts' 4-3, 11-inning win over the St. Louis Cardinals. It was the Colts' second straight victory over the Redbirds and sliced their NL lead to a half-game.

In Extra Innings
What makes Woodeshick's record even more distinctive is the fact the Colts don't score many runs and he's had to battle for his wins in extra innings. The Colts have won six of their last seven extra-inning games and Woodeshick has been the winning pitcher in every one of them.

Bill White doubled home the tying run against Woodeshick in the ninth Monday night but then Hal stopped the Cardinals cold and the Colts finally won out in the 11th.

Manager Ralph Named 17 AL Players, 4 Yanks He Will Play

By DICK DEW

United Press International
BOSTON 476 — New York manager Ralph Houk today named 17 additional American League All-Stars, four of them Yankees, to the squad he will direct against the National League at Cleveland next Tuesday.

In an announcement made here by league president Joe Cronin, Houk closely followed the form when he named the reserves. He picked staff, two reserve catchers, and four replacements for both the infield and the outfield.

Houk departed from the balloting by the players only once — when he chose Kansas City's Norm Siebern as reserve to his own Joe Pepitone at first base. Boston's Dick Stuart had finished second to Pepitone and was the only second choice not selected for the squad.

Under the respective rules, however, Houk was required to name at least one player from each club and Siebern was the lone Kansas City player.

Bunning Heads Pitchers
Pitchers named by Houk for the 30th All-Star squad included Detroit's Jim Bunning and included Steve Barber of Baltimore, Jim Bouton of New York, Jim Grant of Cleveland, Ken McBride of Los Angeles, Juan Pizarro of Chicago, and relief ace Dick Radatz of Boston.

Houk chose Yankee Elston Howard and Washington's Don Leppert as reserve catchers to Earl Battey and picked Baltimore's Luis Aparicio, Yankee Bobby Richardson, Baltimore's Brooks Robinson and Siebern as infield replacements.

His starting infield, announced last weekend, has Pepitone at first, Nellie Fox of Chicago at second, Frank Malzone of Boston at third, and Zoilo Versalles of Minnesota at short.

Outfield spurs picked by Houk included Minnesota's Bob Allison and Harmon Killebrew, Tom Tresh of the Yankees, and Boston's Carl Yastrzemski.

Stan Williams Develops New Pitch; N.Y. Wins

By FRED DOWN

United Press International
Stan Williams has a new pitch, and it's no coincidence that the New York Yankees' American League rivals have that sinking feeling.

The erstwhile fireballer, acquired in a winter trade with the Los Angeles Dodgers, turned in a 4 1/2-inning performance of brilliant one-hit relief pitching Monday night and then revealed that he has added a pitch and revamped his entire pitching style.

"I decided I needed a new pitch," said Williams, whose 5-40 earned run average before Monday night's game had qualified him as the Yankees' biggest disappointment of the season. "And so I developed a sinker by modifying my motion. Instead of throwing full overhead, I now come around three-quarter and the ball naturally comes in low and sinks."

The 6-foot, 4-inch, 230-pound right-hander's near-perfect relief job gave the Yankees a 7-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox and enabled them to open up a 2 1/2-game lead in the AL. It means that the Yankees are edging slightly away from the field for first time this season—and, if you're an American League fan, you're beginning to get a sinking feeling in your stomach.

Like Drysdale's

Both Williams and Yankee manager Ralph Houk compared the big pitcher's new delivery with Don Drysdale's. Drysdale throws full overhead but his fast ball comes in low and sinks. Williams claims he is getting the same result with a slightly modified motion.

Williams made it a gala night for himself when he also delivered a 400-foot, fifth-inning triple that drove in the tie-breaking run and then scored the insurance run on Tony Kubek's third single of the game.

Kubek and Clete Boyer had three hits each. Phil Linz had four and Joe Pepitone had two to give the Yankees infield a total of 12 hits in the Yankees' 17-hit attack. Kubek and Boyer each made a brilliant play in the field and right-fielder Roger Maris made an eye-popping catch on Gary Geiger in the seventh inning as the world champions

WELL, WELL, SUPERMAN—Capt. Robert F. Courter, former USAF fighter pilot, seems about to soar right over Chicago's McCormick Place as he demonstrates a flying belt. It is powered with miniature rockets strapped to his back. He can manipulate the device to hover in the air. Courter soared about 700 feet at a 40-foot altitude.

FARM BUREAU in Action Kentucky Farm Bureau Fed.

Several years ago the Kentucky Farm Bureau set up a safety department to promote safety, especially of the farm and in the rural home. Since then, much time and effort has been devoted to keeping safety before the public in general and Farm Bureau families in particular.

One of the latest efforts of the state organization was to issue a very practical bulletin, For Safer Farming, by a committee of state personnel headed by Charles L. Wallace, to be used particularly as a home discussion guide through July. During this month, National Farm Safety Week will be held July 21-27.

Some of the safety measures emphasized in this important publication follow:

Always read the label on agricultural chemicals, use as directed, store in original containers and in locked cabinets.

Repair or discard broken and unsafe ladders. Make sure stairways are properly lighted and adequately handrailed. Keep in mind that falls cause over half the home accidents.

Know and obey all traffic laws and follow safe driving practices. Remove trees, weeds and shrubs at farm entrances and intersections. Be a courteous driver at all times.

Make sure your farm equipment is in safe operating condition. Equipment should be well marked with flags and properly lighted. Always stop the machine before oiling or unclogging or adjusting. Never depend on luck.

Take safety seriously—everywhere—at all times. Be especially careful around bodies of water—both large and small. Learn to handle guns properly. Be sure to include safety in farm family vacation plans.

Be careful to keep toys and other objects off floors, stair steps and sidewalks. As before stated, falls are responsible for the majority of home accidents, and many of the falls are caused by toys and other small objects left on the floor. Home accidents, next in order to falls, are burns, suffocation, poisons and firearms. The most dangerous places in the farm home are the yard, the living room and the kitchen, in that order.

Remember, safety begins at home. Teach the children to learn and practice safety rules. (Most of the automobile accidents occur in the group under 25 years of age.) Keep your farm and home in order. Be a good housekeeper in your home and on your farm.

INSPECTION DUE SOON
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Deputy Asst. Secretary of the Army Eugene H. Merrill will inspect construction programs at the Army Depot here and the Blue Grass Depot at Richmond Monday.

ENROLLMENT UP
GEORGETOWN, Ky. (AP) — An enrollment of 435 students for the first summer session at Georgetown College was a 6 per cent increase over the first term last year, it was announced Friday.

SCANDAL TRIAL of Dr. Stephen Ward in London — the Profumo scandal — on charges of living off the earnings of prostitution and other counts brings these faces to the forefront. Left: John Profumo, who resigned as war minister after admitting he lied to Parliament about an affair with party girl Christine Keeler. Upper middle: Ward, society osteopath and artist. Lower middle: Miss Keeler, who not only parted with Profumo, but switched back and forth to a Soviet diplomat, which has the British government worried about security. Upper right: Former actress Valerie Hobson, now Mrs. Profumo. Middle right: Retired London attorney Michael Edgewise, who wrote a letter to Scotland Yard saying Miss Keeler told him she was asked to obtain secrets from Profumo, which she denied. Lower right: Marilyn Rice-Davies, 18, a friend of Miss Keeler's who was questioned by Scotland Yard and released under orders to stay in Britain.

THESE NEW-LOOK tents can be pitched in two minutes. Jointed rods fit into sleeves on the outer side. When they're snapped into the metal crown piece, the tent pops up!

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

IT'S SUMMER and everyone who can manage it is enjoying life out-out in the backyard or in the great open spaces.

Whether you prefer to stick close to the home grounds or head far afield, there are any number of new products designed to make outdoor life extra enjoyable.

Backyard Pool

Biggest boon for youngsters—and for the parents, too—is a backyard pool that's really a delight. It needs no inflating, no nuts, bolts or metal parts.

It comes neatly rolled up in a compact box. To use it, just unpack and fill with water.

The pool is made of rigid vinyl so that the sides need no support.

Redwood Rocker

While Junior is making like a duck, Mom can settle down comfortably in an outdoor rocker that's a handsome addition to the backyard scene.

Made of weather-resistant redwood trimmed with aluminum, this high-backed rocker is a folding design that's extra-sturdy. It can be matched up with other redwood pieces, including a smart square umbrella table, a long picnic table with benches, a variety of casual chairs or a relaxing chaise longue.

Pop-Up Tent

For those who enjoy camping out, tent-pitching has been made easier than ever by a novel pop-up tent that can be assembled in a jiffy.

The tent folds into a canvas bag.

THE LAST WORD in outdoor furniture is a smart-looking and very comfortable high-backed rocker in redwood.

Case 35 inches long and about 15 inches in diameter.

Easy To Assemble

It's supported by tough rods of glass fiber that fit into sleeves on its outer side, jointed by ferrules just as a fishing rod is. The rods snap into a metal crown piece when the tent is pushed down into a pumpkin lantern shape, then the tent pops up and is ready for occupancy.

Assembly time: two minutes!

Thanks to such efficiency designed products as this pop-up tent, "roughing it" has become a mere figure of speech. Properly equipped, just about anyone can enjoy almost all the comforts of home in the great outdoors.

COME ON IN, the water's fine! Junior enjoys a dip in a new backyard pool that Mother and Dad will like, too. Made of rigid vinyl, it needs no assembling or inflating.

Woman's World

Dear Abby . . .

You're Sunk, Brother!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 27 and my wife is 20. I'm a high school graduate and she quit at the eighth grade because her mother said she didn't need a diploma to have babies. We've been married for two years and this is my problem: All my wife reads in the newspaper is the funnies. She never listens to the news on the radio and she puts if I do. She doesn't know what's going on in the world and doesn't care to learn. Last week she asked me where the Berlin Wall was, and why it was there. I nearly fainted. She can't spell worth a hoot and says as long as people can understand her when she talks she doesn't have to spell. The cookbook I bought her is collecting dust. If food doesn't come in a can or a package she won't buy it. How can I get her to improve her mind?

TROUBLED HUSBAND
DEAR TROUBLED: If she has no desire to improve her mind, you'll go out of yours before she improves hers. You speak of this woman as though you won't her in a raffle. She is the woman you chose to be your lifetime partner. I suggest you make the best of a bad bargain.

DEAR ABBY: This guy I am going to tell me that he was married to a Danish girl while he was in the service over there. Now he wants to marry me. He told me they don't have "divorces" in Denmark. If a married couple wants to dissolve a marriage, they just shake hands and say goodbye. Maybe I am ignorant, but I never knew there was anything like that in Denmark. Something tells me he is giving me a line. Can you straighten me out?

CATHY
DEAR CATHY: The "something" that tells you it's a "line" is your common sense. Divorce is dissolved in Denmark through a court of law, just as it is here. If something was rotten in Denmark, it was your "guy."

DEAR ABBY: I was recently invited to a "housewarming" party. The invitation said a chair had been selected at a local furniture store and everyone was supposed to pay "something" on it. This seemed very crude to me. If this is the "style" now, maybe we should give a housewarming party when we move into our new home next month. And ask everyone to pay "something" on the mortgage.

"DISTURBIA"
DEAR "DISTURBIA": Perhaps it's the season, but people seem to be getting bolder in their manner of harvesting gifts. In my opinion, there is only one sound reason for giving a gift—for the pleasure of giving.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "C"
God divided man into men that they might help each other. Don't stop now.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Lindsey Home Scene Of Women's Meet

The Women's Association of College Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Alfred Lindsey, North Eighth Street, Monday evening, with Mrs. Charles Simons the assisting hostess.

Devotions were led by Mrs. James Fee, and the business portion of the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Paul Lynn, Association President. Plans are in the making for the annual summer luncheon of the group which this year will be an Oriental Luncheon on July 15.

Mrs. Edward Brunner presented the evening's program on the Youth Target, dealing in particular with the causes and resulting problems of School Drop-outs.

The hostesses served refreshments at the close of the program.

Spring Hill Group Has Social At the Warren Sykes Home

A social gathering from the Spring Hill Baptist Church was held at the home of Bro. Warren Sykes on Saturday night.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Parish, Sarah and Sue Parish, Harold Ross, Brenda Paris, Jimmie Bonar, Carolyn and Louise Parish, Gary, Wayne and Key Odom and Carolyn Bailey.

This being the young people's class, and the teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Glynn Orr of Puryear and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sykes and Susan entertained with a winner roast. Games were played and songs were sung.

HE'S TRYING TO STEAL A KISS—A Sadler's Wells Theater official (left) in London pushes a theatergoer away as he steps up to try to kiss Princess Margaret as she arrives with her husband, Lord Snowden (partly hidden). The princess maintains her poise, however. The man was being ushered out, as he had no ticket. (Radiofoto)

NANCY

ABIE AN' SLATS

LIL' ABNER

June 17.
He is the second son of Ivan and Maggie Guthrie. His oldest brother, Herman, preceded him in death, a number of years ago. His surviving brother is Charles Hester of this county and his only sister is Mrs. Bob Casey of Akron, Ohio.

"Dub" was in his forty-sixth (46th) year and was married in 1935 to Mildred Cooper, the only child of Allie and Calie Cooper. To this marriage, four children were born: two sons and two daughters. The sons are Herman Eugene and Tommy. The daughters are Mrs. Jerry Miller and Cathy Lynn, the youngest child being 13. All four children are residents of this county. "Dub" Mildred and the entire family are members of South Pleasant Grove Methodist Church.

"Dub" was the proud grandfather of six (6) grandchildren, who loved their "Gran Gran" dearly. The night was never too dark that "Dub" would fall down on answering their calls and needs.

He was a skilled worker and loved his work. An outstanding joy of "Dub" was to be helpful to those who could not help themselves, this being one of the greatest attributes that God can give an individual.

"Dub" was a splendid neighbor and a kind husband and father. He, fortunately, was blessed with two mothers and two fathers. "Dub" will be sadly missed by his family and all those who knew him, for he had a host of friends and loved ones.

Respectfully submitted by,
Mrs. Leslie Ellis ltp

Challenging Romance in a Lost Land

VALLEY OF YESTERDAY

By CLEO STEPHENS

From the novel published by Arrow Books Copyright, 1961, by Cleo Stephens. Illustrated by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 21
"REST NOW, grandfathers," Chiniza said, rearranging the furs under Wasso's feet. "No time for rest is past. I have work to do." Wasso said firmly. He pointed to the Adams' sandals and to Chiniza's headband. "What turn on sandal on headband?" he asked.
Kit hesitated. "Why-copper, I suppose," she said.
"Not copper," Wasso said, shaking his head. "Not copper." He turned his head toward his granddaughter. "What turn, Chiniza?"
"Gold trim," she promptly answered in a matter-of-fact tone.
Cliff Roberts and Kit gazed at the pattern of gold on the sandal. Never having seen the metal used in such a way before, it simply did not occur to them that it was anything but copper, handed down through the generations of Indians.
"I, Wasso, give to you, Chief Bird Man and to you, Chief Bird Man's tribe," Wasso's voice tapered off and he seemed to close for a moment. When he again began to talk, his mind had drifted to another subject.
"All chiefs of Hidden Valley buried in temple cave," he said, turning appealingly to Cliff. "Will Bird Man do this for old Chief? It is Wasso's desire that he lie with ancestors in temple cave."
"You'll be with us a long time," Cliff began, but seeing Wasso shake his head impatiently, he realized that his words were hollow. "Chief Wasso," he said, "when your time comes I will do as you say."
The Indian leaned back relaxed, a smile on his wrinkled face. Chiniza choked back a sob.
The occupants of the tree house were quiet for a while. Wasso lay with closed eyes as though asleep. Cliff moved over to the open side of the tree house and looked out over the valley. He was puzzled. Wasso said he wanted to be buried in the temple cave and that all his ancestors had been buried there, evidently all the Chiefs. How could this be?
Now that he thought back to the scene he could remember that the far end of the cave room was completely dark. Back there would be the burial spot and perhaps the cache of gold.
As though reading Cliff's mind, Wasso muttered, "Dig—dig out—Cave-in. Take Wasso to ancestors."
"It's all right, old fellow,"

Cliff assured him. "I'll follow all your wishes."
WASSO, Chief of Hidden Valley, was dead. During the night the gentle old Indian had gone to be with the Great Spirit he had so loved.
The nazy sun looked down on a strange scene. On the trail that wound around the crater wall, the Hidden Valley people followed their leader to his last resting place. At the head of the procession a young white man was carrying the body of the old Chief, which had been wrapped in deer skins. Next to the new Chief was the next of kin, and bringing up the rear came the friend of the family, Kit Adams.
Cliff had been against the funeral procession on the grounds they would be vulnerable to attack if Yucaipa chose this time to avenge himself. But on this one matter the usually compliant Indian girl had been adamant: no amount of reasoning, no argument could dissuade her from her determination that her grandfather be escorted to his resting place in the traditional manner.
As a result, the little party wound its way toward the cave in spite of the possibility of an enemy ambush. Cliff had insisted upon one concession: that Kit carry her bow and arrows and his spear. He was depending on her to guard the rest of the tiny entourage.
Chiniza was no help. She was oblivious to everything as she walked, head-high, face set, the blank expression on her face a useless attempt to hide the sorrow that burned revealingly in her dark eyes.
Her mother and father had died while she was very young; then all the others who had been close to her had followed, leaving only the gentle grandfather. All the love of a loving nature had been directed toward him, and now he was gone.
When the little procession reached the curve of the cave, Chiniza stopped and seated herself on a rock against the wall.
Cliff paused and looked at Kit questioning. She came up to him. "Taboo," she said softly. "The sacred cave is taboo to her."
"But I can't leave her here with Yucaipa at large," Cliff worried.
"I'm staying with her," Kit said and added quickly, "I have your spear, and I wouldn't hesitate to use it."
Cliff paused, uncertain, and looked again at the Indian girl. She had not been listening; she sat staring before her as though in a trance. Cliff knew it would be useless to try to persuade her to enter the cave.

"That was a man coming down the path, a tall, dark-haired man, and worse yet, the man had on civilized clothes!" The story reaches a climax here tomorrow.

Barbers And Beauticians Face Difficulty In Combs Decree

By JOSEPH VARILLA
 Staff Writer, The Ledger & Times

It will probably be some time before barber shops and beauty parlors are integrated in Kentucky, a state official said today.

Otto Goff said beauticians and barbers face problems that don't exist in other professions when it comes to integration. Goff is the executive director of the board of examiners for barbers, cosmetologists and hairdressers.

"A white beautician in almost all cases is not qualified to set a colored woman's hair and vice versa," Goff said. "Because of the different texture of the hair, completely different processes are used."

He said that because the hair of the Negro is naturally more curly, the hair must be straightened out before another wave can be put in. He said that no waves are used extensively in the process.

EIGHT DROWN IN CAR IN FLOODING RIVER—Rescue workers string a rope across the flooding Oconee River in Athens, Ga., in preparation for a search for eight of 10 occupants drowned when their car veered out of control as it approached a bridge in a rain storm and plunged into the river. Passing motorists jumped into the river and saved a woman and a boy, 10. The dead included six children.

THE WORLD'S LARGEST pneumatic tractor on the world's largest tires dwarfs that little car at the Millard Dam project in Junction City, Kan. Each of the tractor's 10-foot-high tires, biggest Goodyear turns out, weighs 3,100 pounds, about twice the weight of the auto. The tractor was built by Intercontinental Engineering, Parkville, Mo., for Western Contracting, Sioux City, Ia. It is 47 feet long and has a 1,650-hp diesel engine.

Tries To Avenge Death Of Father

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind. (AP)—A startled Circuit Court jury here watched a grief-stricken young man vault a three-foot rail Monday in an attempt to avenge the death of his father, who was shot down on his used car lot.

"I'll kill you... I'll kill you," Robert Mauk, 22, screamed as he charged toward the white-haired man accused of murdering his father.

The defendant, a short, stocky man, got to his feet slowly and as court officials hauled the still screaming Mauk out of the room said, "Let him go. I'll take care of him."

Mauk's younger sister was led sobbing from the gallery.

"Please don't do it, Bobby," she cried. She kept calling, "Daddy, Daddy."

Clarence Hall, 56, who is charged with the first degree murder of Joseph Mauk, 43, last November, returned to his seat.

The young Mauk was brought back to the Floyd Circuit Court a few minutes later and sentenced to 30 days for contempt of court by special Judge C. Bliss Eskew.

It law. Both houses were to clear up technicalities later today and were expected to adjourn before 1 p. m. (EST.)

It has been anticipated that the House would vote on the bill and adjourn Monday night, but members voted in caucus to stay another day. Legislators receive $25 a day salary and $25 expenses.

State senators who have had nothing to do since last Thursday did not try to hide their charge at the House action.

Tried Twice Unsuccessfully—The senators have made two attempts to get final adjournment, but both have been foiled by the House. The Senate first wanted to adjourn Friday, and then set Monday as the date. The House would not go along on either date, however, and the Senate had to remain in session because one house cannot adjourn without the other.

Although the House was in session for about an hour and a half Monday night, it acted on only two measures—a resolution to adjourn today and a resolution condemning the U. S. Supreme Court for its ruling on busing in the schools.

The adjournment resolution was passed by a booming voice vote, and the Supreme Court resolution was approved 41-10 with many representatives abstaining.

One of those who abstained was House Majority Leader R. P. Moloney. D-Fayette. Moloney said the resolution was poorly drafted and asked the representatives to vote either against God or against the U. S. Supreme Court.

"It's like asking a fella if he still beats his wife," Moloney said. "Like that fella, I have refused to answer."

The chief sponsor of the resolution was State Rep. Leonard Hislop, R-Philippi.

It contained a paragraph which couldn't find anyone in the bail-the House for having no introduction he knew, rose to apologize to them to make.

The majority of the Supreme Court, Earl Warren always included, is soft on communism and hard on religion.

Moloney and others in the House interpreted this as "a gratuitous insult to the Chief Justice of the United States."

One legislator called the measure "the first John Birch resolution introduced in the House." Warren is one of the chief targets of the John Birch Society.

Most of Monday night's session was consumed by the introduction of bills. One legislator, who

The committee said "self-interest" is the reason the highway departments of the four states principally involved can not agree on the routing of I-24.

"Illinois, more than any one of the four, is trying to profit at the expense of the other three," it said in the public statement.

Describing the many proposals made and rejected by engineers and highway officials of the states involved, the Cairo Chamber of Commerce committee said:

"Where, in all that maneuvering and wheeling and dealing, were the elected state representatives of the people of Cairo? Why weren't they doing something to protect the right of the people of Cairo? Are they going to stand by and see the people of this area robbed of their share of Interstate Highways 57 and 24? If our elected officials concur in this perversion of all that is right and fair, who are the people of Cairo to look to for help?"

"It is a sad state of affairs when the people of Cairo have to depend upon the people of another state to see that the rights of the people of Cairo are protected. It is an even sadder state of affairs when the highway department of our state is willing to bargain and give away our rights in favor of another segment of the state."

The Cairo group said Mr. Staff "speaks of reviewing the location of I-57 in order to provide the best traffic service with the least expense."

"The people of Cairo have another name for what he and the Illinois Highway Department are trying to do. They call it 'highway robbery.'" the Explorer of the Year will be presented with a trophy.

This program will also be extended to the District level and the Council level for the Explorer of the Year.

The next activity planned by Post 45 will be a co-ed splash party to be held at the Scout Reservation the early part of August. This will be a family affair with the boys asking their girl friends to attend. After the meal will be swimming and canoeing on the waterfront.

Plans are to be started for the annual trip next year by Post 45. This will be to the National Jamboree at Valley Forge and a visit to the Worlds Fair in New York. This trip will be the latter part of July '64.

Projects are being discussed for earning part of the money for the expense of the trip. One of the first will be a concession stand at the Calloway County Fair this month.

By working and earning a portion of the money for these expeditions, many boys are able to make the trip who would otherwise not get to it. Also, this follows one of the basic principles of Scouting and Exploring, to learn to pay your own way.

FORGOT TO DUCK—This duck that met with fowl play was to get along just fine with that arrow in its innards as it swam about with other ducks in a lagoon on the Spring Vale Golf Course in North Olmsted, O., a Cleveland suburb. The arrow had been there at least 10 days when the picture was made, and nobody seemed able to account for it.
